Widowed mum left without cash help

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A WOMAN whose husband died suddenly before Christmas is still waiting to receive any financial support for herself and her two children.

Nicola Marsh was devastated to lose her husband Stuart on December 6 when he collapsed and died at work, just after starting a new job as a trainee milkman.

Mr Marsh had not been ill at all, but suddenly suffered a heart attack and did not recover from it. Mrs Marsh was told she qualified for income support and child tax credit for herself and her sons Adam, 10, and Jake, one, but is still waiting to receive any payment.

To make matters worse the ceiling in the bathroom at the family's home in Burton End, Haverhill, collapsed just after Stuart died and she has no idea where she will find the £2,000 needed to repair it.

Mrs Marsh said: "It was very hard over Christmas and New Year. It was my 40th birthday at Christmas and his birthday was in December.

"I stayed at my parents' house over Christmas because I just could not face the house with all the financial difficulties as well.

"It is bad enough losing your husband without having to worry about where the next penny is coming from. No one is doing anything to help me, they just could not care less. They said that Christmas and New Year had caused a delay, but I still have not heard anything.

"I am angry and upset at the same time. I need the money for urgent repairs and the insurance company would not pay out. I have to go to my parents' house for a bath because the ceiling is not safe – it could completely fall in on me.

"I could apply for a grant, but I would have to pay it back and I don't want to be in debt. I keep ringing the 0845 number, but I just get a different person every time. I just don't know what else to do."

A Department of Work and Pensions (DWP) spokesman said: "We cannot comment on individual cases. We advise customers to make contact with Jobcentre Plus promptly to apply for benefit even if they are unsure which benefit they may be entitled to.

"Jobcentre Plus will then process the claim to ensure customers receive their appropriate entitlement as quickly as possible. If there is any delay, Jobcentre Plus will apologise to the customer involved."

Mayors say goodbye to tireless fundraiser

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

MAYORS from across East Anglia turned out in their official regalia to pay their respects at the funeral of late Haverhill Town Mayor Ted Trebble.

A funeral service was held at St Mary's parish church on Tuesday for Cllr Trebble, who died in hospital on Friday, January 11.

Mourners packed the pews to say goodbye to Cllr Trebble, who was elected as mayor last May, but was unable to continue his official duties after suffering a stroke while visiting his family in Norfolk.

After spending six months in hospital, he was allowed home for Christmas and had planned to get back to his role as mayor, which had been filled in his absence by deputy mayor Les Ager. But he suffered a second massive stroke from which he did not recover.

The Rev Ian Finn conducted the funeral service and eulogies were made by John Wigmore, a close friend of Cllr Trebble, who described him as a modest man who had organised many events and raised thousands of pounds for charity over the years.

Cllr Ager said Cllr Trebble had two plans he hoped to see realised during his year of office – one to grant Freedom of the town to all Second World War veterans, which had been achieved, and the second to floodlight the parish church, for which plans were under way.

Cllr Ager said: "He raised money for medical equipment such as defibrillators and to provide ambulances for the town. He had a deep affection for Haverhill and its people."

A poem written by his step-daughter, Victoria, was read by her husband, Blieu Earp. The service was followed by cremation at Bury St Edmunds and refreshments at the town's arts centre. Mayors at the service included Mary and Laurie Munson, Mayor and Mayoress of Hadleigh; David Cousins, Mayor of Needham Market; and Frank and Audrey Whittle, Mayor and Mayoress of Stowmarket.

HOPEFUL HEARTS

Charity plays Cupid with heartfelt messages

HEARTS are fluttering for a very good cause at a charity shop where space is being rented out for Valentine's Day messages in the window – and one staff member has already used one to propose to her partner.

Cheryl Law has worked at the British Heart Foundation shop in High Street, Haverhill, for the past year and put her heart on her sleeve to ask her partner of 12 years, Peter Skipp, to marry her. Cheryl said: "We have talked about marriage before, but I thought he needed a bit of a push. "He has seen it, but I'm still waiting for an answer. I'm hoping he will say 'yes' and I will get an answer on Valentine's Day."

Jane Tobin, manager at the shop, said branches across the country were hiring out hearts in their window in return for donations of £1 or £2, as well as trying to get businesses to hire larger spaces for £10 to £50. Jane said: "We need all the help we can get so any local support is welcome."

"One of our volunteers is looking for a partner: he has put 'man with knife and fork seeks woman with steak and kidney pudding'."

"We are hoping that we can play Cupid for someone."

For more details about the Valentine's messages visit the shop or call (01440) 703245.

U-turn on car parking charges after protests

INCREASES proposed for car parking charges in Haverhill have been reduced or scrapped entirely after protests by local traders.

Originally the council had proposed to increase short stay parking charges in two Haverhill car parks to 30p for one hour but, following consultation, St Edmundsbury Borough Council's cabinet has agreed to keep this at its current level of 20p.

After hearing the views of business representatives in Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds, the cabinet agreed that changes should be made to proposals for the annual increase in car parking charges.

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Fees at the Ehringshausen Way and Sports Centre car parks in Haverhill will go up in April from 60p to 70p for up to four hours and from £1.40 to £1.50 for over four hours.

The Town Hall car park's charges will go up from 90p to £1 for over one hour and the Lower Downs Slade car park from 60p to 70p for up to three hours.

The new Haverhill cinema car park, where charges will apply in the daytime only, will be 70p for up to four hours and £1.50 for over four hours.

In Bury St Edmunds, a suggested discount of 20 per cent for long stay parking season ticket holders is set to be increased to 30 per cent.

Cllr Terry Clements, cabinet member for transport and planning, said: "All our research shows that when there are difficult budget decisions to make, such as the level of Council Tax, people would rather see charges rise than services cut."

"We consulted across the borough about car parking charges and we thank all those who took part. As a result we have made changes to the original proposals which take into account the comments made to us."

The wait is over – plans for Tesco go in

THE long wait could finally be over for shoppers awaiting the arrival of a new Tesco store in Haverhill.

Detailed plans have been submitted for the new supermarket and restaurant at the former Station Yard site.

The groceries giant has put in plans to St Edmundsbury Borough Council for a 6,000sq ft store with a striking tower design, including a restaurant, which is expected to create around 500 jobs in the town and open next year.

The controversial plan for the store has taken many years to develop, with local residents organising a petition against it and Haverhill Chamber of Commerce unsuccessfully trying to get a new access road developed, which it said would make links to the town centre easier. Local traders fear the high proportion of non-food items in the store could also kill off trade in the town centre.

Outline planning consent was granted last year and the detailed plan retains access to the front of the store, closing the Pightle off to traffic, with resident-only access.

Another boost for the town's shopping facilities came with a planning application from book and newspaper retailer WH Smith to open a store in the former Adams shop in Haverhill High Street, after building a rear extension and making alterations to the building.

Health clinic plan moves forward

PLANS for a new walk-in clinic for Haverhill took a step forward this week.

At its meeting yesterday, the board of the Suffolk Primary Care Trust approved a recommendation that Haverhill should be the preferred location for the new health clinic, which will be the first of its kind in Suffolk.

Health chiefs will carry out a public consultation in February and March.

Haverhill was chosen for the new clinic because its residents visit GPs more than the national average and there is a lack of locally-based community health facilities.

Although welcoming more health facilities for the town, local doctors are angry that they were not told of the plan. They are facing cuts of up to £300,000 to their budgets over the next five years and were told no further money was available for the town.

Haverhill Weekly News regional round-up

Help us keep you informed. We want your news. If your village or club is planning an event, let us know. If your organisation recently had an interesting meeting, let us have a report. Write to Jo Deeks at Haverhill Weekly News, 4 Queen Street, Haverhill, CB9 9EF or send an email to editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Kedington

THE monthly meeting of the Community Council was held in the library on Monday with the chairman Steve Brown presiding and welcoming around a dozen members. There were several apologies. Thanks were expressed to all who had helped in disposing of the old garages and preparing the site to house the new storage containers – work that would have been very costly if put out to tender. The water problems inside the centre had been sorted out, but the problem of the future of the cricket club garage still remained unresolved. An update on the village Ketton Review was presented by the editor, Celia Bradnam, because the current compiler, Lorraine Farr, would be unable to carry on due to unforeseen circumstances. Thanks were extended to her for her work over a number of years, producing 500 copies each quarter of the year. In future, the compiling will be contracted out and copies of reviews from three local villages are being examined to decide the best format to follow on size, content and advertising. Grateful thanks were extended for all the excellent contributions towards producing the review over many years.

Thanks were also recorded to the late Lily White who had delivered the publication to a wide section of the village. It was agreed that the editor will obtain quotes for the printing and formulating.

The treasurer, Sue Brown, reported a satisfactory financial statement, but it was agreed that hire charges for the hall should be looked at, especially in view of the maintenance charges – particularly on fuel – in the pipeline.

Plans for the 2008 40th anniversary of the Meadowlark were in hand, but it was disappointing that Peter Deeks had resigned from the committee as he had been mainly instrumental in organising the daily events leading up to Meadowlark. Thanks were extended to him for his efforts over recent years. A good report had been received on last year's firework display, which had raised some £3,000 with a minimum of trouble reported. The Meadowlark had raised £5,000.

■ A most enjoyable social evening, organised by the local branch of the Royal British Legion (RBL), was held in the Legion Hall on Friday evening, at which bangers and mash were served and excellent entertainment provided by the local duo, Memory Lane. Branch secretary Brian Tyrrell voiced a warm welcome to all, and thanks to the social committee which had helped to provide a most successful evening.

Members and friends had donated 27 prizes for the raffle. An extra fundraiser for the evening was the sale of pickled onions grown and prepared by branch vice-chairman William "Winkle" Smith and his wife, Pam. Over £300 was raised for the pickles and a cheque for this amount was presented to Dawn Tyrrell, the chairman of the social committee. Thanks to all who had helped towards a very successful evening, including treasurer Bob Wyatt, for running the bar, and raffle ladies Vi Wyatt and Sheila May.

■ As the daylight hours are still limited, the monthly walk by Kedington Footpath and Hedge Group is still restricted to a local route of some three to four miles. The walk this Sunday falls into this category: a stroll around the parishes of Great and Little Wrating. Meet at the Community Centre at 2pm and take the short drive to Little Wrating Church. From there, take a path to the water tower, overlooking Haverhill from a very good viewpoint, and from there return past Great Wrating church back to the starting point.

It is organised by John Swan (01440) 708690. All are welcome to participate.

■ Diary: Friday 7pm and Saturday 2pm – Panto at the Community Centre. 7pm for 7.30pm curtain up. £5-£6. Tickets available from Kedington Butchers (01440) 704293)

Sunday: Family Communion at the Parish Church, 9.30am Church in the Field Service, Community Centre, 10.30am.

Monday: RBL Bingo, Legion Hall, 8pm.

Tuesday: Shrove Tuesday Pancake Party at the Rectory 6-9pm. Monthly Meeting of the Garden Society, Legion Hall, 7.30pm.

Wednesday: Holy Communion with Ashes, Parish Church, 10am.

Bailed addict took overdose

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

JUST four days after he was granted bail for a string of thefts drug addict Liam Darby was rushed to hospital after taking an overdose of heroin.

Darby, 23, had to spend two days in Addenbrooke's Hospital recovering last week and was remanded in custody until he appeared before Bury St Edmunds magistrates court on Monday.

Magistrates imposed a total sentence of eight months' imprisonment suspended for two years, but spared Darby an immediate custodial sentence so that he could seek help with his addiction.

Darby admitted a new charge of being in possession of the Class A drug heroin on Friday January 25, as well as six charges of theft in December last year, and asked for a further four theft offences to be taken into consideration.

Kevin Lowson, prosecuting, said Darby was granted bail when he appeared for sentence on the theft charges on Monday, January 21, on condition that he attended interviews to be assessed for suitability for drug rehabilitation treatment and that he did not go in to Haverhill town centre.

But on Friday, January 25, an ambulance was called to his home in Eastern Avenue, Haverhill, where he was in a very poor condition after taking a heroin overdose. Police found a used syringe and a loaded syringe containing heroin in the property.

December's offences involved a series of thefts of cars which were damaged by forced entry and later found abandoned, as well as thefts of property taken from parked cars. At one time Darby had been sleeping in his own car and told police he broke into one vehicle looking for a place to sleep.

David Stewart, for Darby, said his client had attended two appointments before his relapse and did want to get help for his addiction. His problems had been added to by a serious head injury he had received in 1999.

Mr Stewart said: "He has been ostracised by his mother, who cannot cope with his addiction. If you jail him for a short time, he would only end up back on the street with no help."

Sarah Smeeth of social services said there were concerns about whether Darby had sufficient motivation to tackle his drug problem, as his partner was a drug user on a rehabilitation order.

Ms Smeeth said: "He is surrounded by people who support drug using. If he goes back into that community we will be putting him back into the lion's den."

Brain Harvey, chairman of the magistrates, said: "If it had not been for swift action taken on Friday he probably would not be here before us today. We are suspending the custodial sentence to give him opportunity to take the help available from the Probation Service."

Darby was ordered to pay £495 compensation for damage caused to vehicles.

Special Sainsbury's send-off suits Sandra

SANDRA Baker was hoping to slip away quietly when she retired from her job after 22 years – but her colleagues had other ideas.

Sandra, who turned 60 on Monday, was given a surprise send off by staff at the Sainsbury's store at Haycock's Road, Haverhill, when they gathered in the staff canteen to present her with flowers, champagne and gifts.

Sandra, of Rosefinch Close, Haverhill, who has three children and one granddaughter, has worked in price control throughout her time at Sainsbury's. She started off at the original much smaller Sainsbury's store in Jubilee Walk and is now one of 400 employees at the store. Sandra said: "Things have changed a lot. When I first started everything was marked with sticky labels, but now it is all done by computers."

"I preferred it when we were at Jubilee Walk really, it was more of a family. I have not really decided what I am going to do yet, it is a new phase in life. I have got a lot of friends and my husband, John, retires next year so we hope to have plenty of holidays." Jane Fisher, administration manager in charge of Sandra's department, said: "We are going to miss her because she is so dependable and reliable, and such a lovely lady. We could not let her go without doing something."

Labour's attack on Tories over tax rise

A LOWER than expected Council Tax increase of 3.75 per cent will be recommended by Suffolk County Council's cabinet at its meeting next week.

Cllr Jane Storey, portfolio holder for resource management and transformation, said: "This budget continues to be about the future, and the ambitions the council has for the prosperity and wellbeing of people living and working in Suffolk."

"I believe it will be welcomed by the people of Suffolk who are facing higher living costs due to increased fuel, food and petrol prices."

But the council's Labour group attacked the budget announced by the Conservative administration, which it said outlined cuts of £5.5million in social care services while at the same time announcing a higher than necessary Council Tax increase of 3.75 per cent.

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Kevan Lim, Labour lead for resources, finance and procurement, said: "Despite receiving a huge £10 million additional windfall from Government, the administration is ploughing ahead with many of the cuts they announced in November as if nothing has changed, while they appear incapable of managing the budget to ensure that Council Tax is increased by only a modest amount."

"They could have, with imagination and vision, used this extra money from Government to improve social care and ensure a Council Tax increase below 3 per cent. This is smoke and mirrors management of the worst kind and does a disservice to the people of Suffolk."

A statement from the council said an extra £36 million would be spent on services this year, funded from efficiencies and savings of £12 million, a Government grant of £12 million and Council Tax contributions of £12 million. This will give an extra £6.6 million for vulnerable people, £1.9 million for fire, audit and inspection arrangements, contingencies, animal health and community safety, a one-off investment of £2.5million for highways maintenance, £500,000 for the upkeep of buildings and £1 million for Home First services.

Cllr Jeremy Pembroke, leader of the county council, said: "Yet again we face challenging times over the medium and long term."

"Deciding where to spend the money means we had to make some tough decisions and as always, we listened to people's views to decide where the money would be best spent."

All the information on the budget will be put before the full council on February 21 for the final decision on the budget and Council Tax level.

How can we trust health chiefs now?

Sir, Haverhill GPs have been left feeling cheated and bewildered by the most recent press statement from the Suffolk Primary Care (PCT) Trust about a new clinic in Haverhill, once again having to ask, "can we trust them?". Suffolk PCT has consistently stated that there is "nothing unusual" about healthcare demand in Haverhill to justify the large funding reductions to local GP practices. Now, it has used figures showing the "exceptionally high demand" on all areas of healthcare in Haverhill as the main reason for Haverhill being its preferred site for a new clinic.

At a recent public meeting in Haverhill organised by local MP Richard Spring, the most senior managers from the PCT consistently stated there was nothing exceptional about the health needs of the population of Haverhill. Only a few weeks following these public statements, the press release from the chief executive of Suffolk PCT, Carol Taylor-Brown, identifies Haverhill's highest level of healthcare usage in Suffolk as the PCT's main reason for proposing Haverhill as their preferred town to receive a new clinic. While local GPs have always argued for and fully support any improvement in the provision of health services in Haverhill, the GPs see the press release as confirmation that Haverhill has been robbed of funds. The recent large funding reduction for practices in Haverhill – some £300,000 annually – is already having an adverse impact on local health services, with some services being cut and GPs struggling to cope with the high demand on local health services. GPs in Haverhill feel the PCT's senior managers must have been aware of the figures showing exceptionally high healthcare demand at the time of the public meeting and while they were negotiating the large reduction of funds to local practices. This has left GPs believing Suffolk PCT has been less than honest with the population of Haverhill, robbing them of much-needed funds now.

Young vandals wreck mirrors

BOTH wing mirrors were kicked off a car which was in Haverhill for just 10 minutes.

The black Peugeot 205 was parked in a pub car park at Ingham Road, Haverhill, between 5.50pm and 6pm on Tuesday, January 22.

The culprits are described as male, white and around 12 years old – one had blonde hair and was wearing a blue jumper, the other had short dark hair and was wearing a grey hooded top.

Anyone with information about the offence should call Pc Robert Bunton at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

National line-up for gravity races

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A PROJECT in which pupils build and drive their own racing car has been so successful it has now gone national and is involving top schools such as Eton.

The gravity racer project began at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College in Haverhill in 2001 when teacher David Ackroyd and his pupils were helped by 25 local companies to design and build a gravity propelled racer with no engine, costing about £30,000.

They were up against giants Rolls-Royce, Lotus and Ferrari, and have held their own for several years at the Goodwood Festival of Speed.

David Ackroyd has given up teaching to spend all his time on the project, known as Formula Gravity.

The latest Nimbus racer will be in action at Cadwell Park Race-track on Sunday, up against 24 teams including Honda, Lotus and Bentley. The Nimbus is piloted by 16-year-old Justin Jones from Samuel Ward Technology College Haverhill, where it was conceived and built.

Mr Ackroyd said he was expecting the VXR Nimbus, which has a drag chute to help slow it at the end of the run, to do well.

He said: "Our team will be the youngest team entered at Cadwell. Last year this team equalled the track speed record at Cadwell against the adults and won the best young driver's cup.

■ ON TRACK FOR SUCCESS . . . 16-year-old Justin Jones, from Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College, brings the racer to a halt.

"They were also part of the winning team at the World Cup Event at Eastbourne last year.

"We are hoping that we can hold our own against the might of British industrial giants such as Lotus and Honda."

The Formula Gravity project is designed for schools and colleges engaged in GCSE Technology and the new Engineering Diplomas.

Mr Ackroyd said: "We now have schools and colleges involved from Scotland to Portsmouth.

"One of our main strengths is getting national and local companies involved with schools and pupils to get a racer built and raced.

"Gravity Racing is hi-tech soapbox racing. The ultimate green sport with no engine involved, just a large hill."

In the first incident on Sunday, a window at a house in Tern Close was damaged at 6.25pm. Then at Roman Way, at 6.40pm, another window was damaged.

Calls in relation to the first incident should be made to Pc Andrew Green at Haverhill Police, and on the second, to Sgt Sarah Bartley at the Haverhill South Safer Neighbourhood Team, both on (01284) 774100.

With classic BMW handling, you will want to keep driving it.

Every BMW is engineered to deliver exceptional driving dynamics and, with a powerful 2.0 litre turbocharged engine, excellent handling and zero to 62 mph in just 7.5 seconds, the 120d certainly delivers.

With these performance credentials you would usually expect to compromise on fuel economy but, thanks to BMW's EfficientDynamics technology, the 120d has a CO₂ emissions rating of just 128 g/km and is capable of returning 58.9 mpg on the combined cycle, leaving you free to enjoy the unparalleled driving experience for longer. Looking at the examples below, the figures speak for themselves.

More traveller pitches on way

THE number of new traveller pitches to be set up in Mid Anglia has been decided – now the search for sites begins.

The East of England Regional Assembly (EERA) recommended on Friday that councils across Cambridgeshire must provide 233 more pitches by 2011.

Cambridge must find sites for 15 pitches, East Cambridgeshire 35, Fenland 89, Huntingdonshire 20 and South Cambridgeshire 59. A pitch is a family-sized plot with room for up to three caravans.

New urban developments in Cambridge are being mooted as one possible location for pitches.

Councillors say increasing the number of authorised pitches will

BY John Morgan

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

cut the number of illegal encampments and help traveller children get a decent education.

But some admit the search for sites will be contentious and tough.

The EERA proposals will be submitted to Hazel Blears, the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government, and published in late February for three months of public consultation. The Government will determine in 2009 the final number of pitches required following an examination in public by planning inspectors later this year.

Coun John Reynolds, chairman of EERA and a member of Cambridgeshire County Council, said: "With every local authority providing some additional accommodation, it will help to solve the problem of unauthorised encampments which can cause problems for residents and gypsies and travellers."

He believes sites must be within a reasonable distance of existing settlements so travellers have access to healthcare and education, but said councils must consult with the public to ensure sites are accepted.

Unauthorised traveller camps have caused tension in many rural areas of Cambridgeshire, most notably those at Smithy Fen in Cottenham.

Coun Ian Nimmo-Smith, leader

■ TOUGH SEARCH . . . Cambridgeshire councils must provide extra permanent sites for travellers.

of Cambridge City Council, thinks the fringes of the city could be suitable for authorised pitches.

He said: "The release of green-belt that is being implemented in the urban extension means that land which was not previously available might be considered."

Coun Nimmo-Smith added: "A working group has been set up by the city council and will be meeting to consider the implications of the now agreed policy, and also to hear back from research that has been done with a number of local authorities in the area looking at possible land-holdings that might be evaluated for traveller pitches.

"But there are no details at the moment. These are studies that have yet to be presented."

While councils have to identify sites, they do not have to set them up or run them. Sites can be developed by councils or housing associations, travellers themselves, private landlords or the development industry.

Coun Ian Allen, travellers' champion on East Cambridgeshire District Council, said: "In terms of numbers, I think that is a victory for common sense. It was suggested at one point that East Cambridgeshire should take 65 more.

"The problem is going to be when we have to identify areas. We are hoping the travellers will subdivide some of their own large, existing plots.

"But if that comes up short, we have to enter another process of saying, 'We think this is where they should go'.

"I don't know how we are going to do that."

■ IAN ALLEN . . . travellers' champion.

For your Valentine

Don't forget Valentines day
Thursday 14th February!

Unearth extra Valentine's Day zest

VALENTINE'S Day can be one of the most dangerous days on the romance calendar.

A crack in a relationship can turn into a chasm when huge expectations of the perfect love token are dashed by the appearance of a wilting bouquet from a garage or a tacky card.

Relationship expert Dr Pam Spurr believes that rather than focusing on gestures - or the lack of them - lovers should use February 14 as a starting point for putting new zest into romance.

She says: "It's a great shame that people feel such enormous pressure about this one day. The expectations are so huge, that it's almost inevitable that there's going to be a let down. Also if people feel so disappointed or angry because of what they see as one inadequate gesture on that day it's often a sign that something more is wrong in their partnership."

Spurr believes that formulating a love strategy could help she says: "Making Valentine's Day the start of taking steps to rescue or revive relationships that may be drowning under the weight of all those responsibilities like careers and families could be the best present you could give your partner."

Follow her strategy for romance that doesn't end on Valentine's Day.

AVOID VALENTINE'S DAY FAILURE

Spurr says: "Women in particular assume that their partner should know without being told what they want for Valentine's Day and if their partner gets it wrong this is because they don't care enough. The latter is usually totally untrue - the reality is that men are not mind readers and need a bit of a helping hand."

She says giving a list of suggestions for three gifts or outings is an easy way around the problem and they can then make the final choice about what they think you would like.

DAILY LOVING CARE

Spurr says: "Make a loving gesture to your partner once a day even if it's just a kiss, and when your partner makes one ensure you appreciate it. Avoid using the words 'never' and 'always' when talking to your partner ie: 'you never clear up' or 'you always forget...' These are counter productive. Instead look for the positive things that he/she does, praise them and suggest improvements in the other areas."

MAKE A DATE WITH LOVE

Set aside special time to be with your partner - even if it's just an hour once a week - when you can be yourselves and ban talk about children, work or worries. Spurr says: "It's important to keep your relationship charged by putting time into it. Talk about good memories you have, watch a film together or find an activity that you can share, even if it's just cooking a meal together."

GO COURTING

Rekindle the excitement of early dating - arrange to meet in a bar, pretend you are strangers and then chat each other up.

Spurr says: "This can help you look at your partner afresh. Flirting with each other and even laughing together at the game you're playing is bonding and will bring back memories of your romantic courting days."

Take a look at these further ideas to help you celebrate a cuddly, romantic Valentine's Day at home:

- Stick to food that is easy to prepare and romantic to eat.
 - Create an intimate dining area
 - Rent a romantic movie
 - Have a cocktail party for two.
 - Set the mood
- For further valentines

Private fostering put in spotlight

A COUNCIL is launching a campaign to protect "hidden" children – those involved in private fostering arrangements.

Suffolk County Council wants everyone concerned with children to know that any private fostering arrangements must, by law, be notified to the council, so that staff can check that make sure the child is safe and well cared for.

Private fostering is when a child under the age of 16 (under 18 if disabled) is looked after by someone who is not their parent or close relative for four weeks or more. Private fostering includes when a child lives with someone from their extended family such as a great-aunt or uncle or their parents' cousins. A private foster carer may be a friend of the family or of the child, or another adult that the child does not know but is willing to foster privately. It is not a private fostering arrangement when a child is living with a close relative such as a grandparent, brother, sister, aunt, uncle or step parent.

Council staff know from national examples that some children in these private situations are particularly vulnerable to neglect or abuse, and it is important that regular, informal checks can be made. When they know about a private fostering arrangement, staff can contact the foster carer to offer information, support and advice.

A social worker will visit the child regularly to make sure they remain safe and well cared for.

Cllr Patricia O'Brien, portfolio holder for children, schools and young people's services, said: "Our message is simple: if you think your situation is private fostering, then you must get in touch with us now – it is against the law not to do so, and you may find you are entitled to support. If we don't know about these children, we can't help."

SAM'S THE WORD

News from Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College

WITH all the exams and mocks now over, many students are working hard to complete their work across the school.

■ At a recent Religious Education day, pupils were given an insight into how religions deal with issues.

■ Prospective sixth-form students are handing in their applications and preparing for the entry interviews. This is a process where they are asked questions about what subjects they would like to do.

■ We are hosting a group of Cambridge graduates who are getting an insight into the inner workings of a school and gaining some teaching experience.

■ We have interviewed Mr Williams, Head of Art, to find out about how the art department is helping the school and what they are engaged in. QCA (Qualifications and Curriculum Authority) have been conducting a case study on the art department to see how they are setting standards and how they are innovating in the KS4 curriculum. Mr Oldfield, from NSEAD (National Society for Education in Art and Design), has conducted interviews with students and gained examples of work.

Bands set to make their mark

EVERYTHING from rock and grunge to indie pop and punk will be represented in the 2008 Haverhill Rock competition, with the first heat at the Haverhill Arts Centre tomorrow. The line-up has been confirmed and there are three heats, with the winner from each taking part in the final. The audience gets the chance to influence the outcome by voting for their favourite band at the end of each heat.

The first heat will feature Haverhill groups The Stray, 3 Screaming Popes and Born Out of Nothing.

Heat two on Friday, February 8 will feature: Selective Walk, Indigo and Falling Empire, all from Haverhill, plus Eva's Dream, from Saffron Walden.

Heat 3 on Saturday, February 9 will feature: Saffron Walden outfit The Early Birds, Solstice, from Haverhill, and Chaos Dynasty, also from Haverhill. All heats and the final will take place at the arts centre, starting at 8pm. To book tickets, at £5, call the box office on (01440) 714140. The minimum age for entry is 14 and proof of age may be required.

The first prize is the chance to make a CD in a recording studio, plus a gig at the arts centre.

The Haverhill Rock competition is sponsored by Haverhill Town Council as part of its Leisure For Young People programme.

Time's running out for stars of future

THE deadline is looming for local bands to get their demos in to the all-new Cambridge Band competition. The competition is being relaunched and is moving from The Junction to the Graduate, with the final in May being held at the Cambridge Corn Exchange. Prizes include £500 in cash, free recording time in a studio, a headline slot at the Big Day Out event on Parker's Piece in the summer and a professional band photo shoot. Application forms are available from the Corn Exchange website at www.comex.co.uk or phone (01223) 457555 to have one posted out to your band. The deadline for entries is 5.30pm on Friday, February 15, and all entries should include a current CD of two or three songs, a photo and band biography.

Follow these steps and play it straight!

By Nik Shelton

CAST members are being put through their paces in an adaptation of Alfred Hitchcock's classic thriller, The 39 Steps, at the Arts Theatre next week, where just four actors will play more than 100 parts.

Writer Patrick Barlow has turned the 1930s spy movie into a hit comedy stage show, which has picked up widespread acclaim on the West End.

He chose to dispense with the original John Buchan novel and instead takes all his inspiration from Hitchcock.

"The book is nothing like the film," he explains. "It has a character called Richard Hannay in it, it has a dead body at the beginning and it has an escape across the Highlands but that's literally it."

"And then there's a lot of humour in that whole way of talking, the very high-pitched, clipped accent of the time. It is hilarious now but of course they didn't see it as funny back then."

Patrick is known to many for his pompous thespian alter ego Desmond Olivier Dingle, director of the National Theatre of Brent, a spoof two-man theatre company which attempts to put on epic stories with hilarious results. He used his experiences of putting on grandiose stories with a tiny cast when he tackled The 39 Steps.

■ COMEDY DRIVE
... The 39 Steps comes to Cambridge all next week. CP.

"They came to me with the idea of The 39 Steps being done by four actors, that was all the brief I got."

"I find it very amusing seeing one person trying to play lots of characters - I think it's comedy gold. The trick is to play it very straight and try not to be too obviously funny."

"You want the audience to be thinking, 'This is ridiculous, there's only two people up there', but at the same time you want them to be gripped by the plots and that's when it really works."

After its success on the West End, the show was picked up by an American producer and recently had its opening night on Broadway, a nerve-wracking experience for Patrick.

"It's an insane world out there. There's one rave review you have to get to make it work and that's the New York Times."

"There was this moment after the first night when we all went to an after-show party and at midnight they brought the review in and read it out - it was an absolutely silent room."

"But it was rave review and they said it was marvellous."

The 39 Steps opens on Monday and runs until Saturday, February 9. Tickets are £10-£27. To book call (01223) 503333.

Something for everyone at panto

FINDING a suitable evening's entertainment for 11 ladies ranging in ages from 20s to almost 90 is a tall order but a trip to the panto proved a successful solution – oh, yes it did!

Centre Stage Company has several essential ingredients for an enjoyable pantomime experience: a pretty heroine, several fools, some cute kids and a totally over-the-top Dame – resplendent in blue "Marge Simpson" wig. All were present and correct in their latest production of Snow White, along with a few extras which they always seem to have hidden away.

Review: Snow White By Jo Deeks

Amy Letcher was just right as Snow White: sweet and sympathetic, but not so goody-goody that you were just aching for the poisoned apple to come along.

Kevin Skilton's natural warmth and comic timing compensated for a dodgy Brummie accent as Wot, and you could even forgive him for the endless "who, what, where" jokes. Becca Neal provided an excellent other half to the comic duo as Lester.

Denise Claydon was a splendid wicked Queen, oozing evil and creating a strong hate/hate relationship with the audience. Steven Roach's wonderfully camp Wizard Blackheart was one of the additions to the show, appearing to have wandered in from some other universe, but fitting in perfectly. A welcome return for the skilful puppetry of Laura Bacon who brought in a sassy cat with plenty to say, surely deserving of a wider audience.

Young dancers dressed as luminous skeletons, animals and spooks in the forest added another dimension to a hugely entertaining show. So what about the Seven Dwarfs, I hear you ask? Well, there were none. They were replaced by the Funny Little Men, who were far from little but hilariously funny. Drama teacher Steve Powter continued his clever ploy to silence any student afraid of making a fool of themselves, by showing them exactly how it should be done.

Last, but by no means least, was the essential appearance by bowver-booted dame Nick Keeble, whose man-hungry widow routine was frighteningly convincing. He immediately struck up a strong bond which had the audience in the palm of his hand. Fine musical accompaniment and some unusual songs from the Blues Brothers and others made for a frantic, fun evening – and a row full of contented ladies!

Property Outlook

FEBRUARY 2008

JUST A SELECTION OF SALES AGREED IN JANUARY

A falling market?

THE MOST asked question of 2008 so far has to be 'What's going on with the property market?'

Depending on which newspaper you choose to believe, which radio station you listen to and which day of the week it is, the experts' opinion on what to expect in 2008 seems to vary from somewhere between 'stationery' and 'catastrophic collapse'.

We're only four weeks into the year, so it's perhaps premature to make a judgement, but if activity in the local market so far is anything to go by, my feeling is that we've already experienced the slight correction that the market needed and that this year will see considerably fewer property transactions but fairly constant prices.

It's certainly worrying that the stockmarket is experiencing some turmoil, and there is no doubt that the American economy isn't at its best, but the point most investment commentators seem to forget about the housing market, is that for 95% of the population it's not about investment, it's about somewhere to live. And we all need that.

Yes, renting is an option, but there is no security in a rented property, often just as you start to feel settled you have to leave, and without the council house stock we once had, buying seems the safest option to people looking for a home they know they can stay in.

For these people, all that matters is whether they can afford it.

It's easy to get bogged down in the numbers involved in house buying, £140,000 for a local starter home sounds ridiculous. But headline figures are only of any use to headline writing scaremongers, what matters is what it costs per month and what people are earning.

For example, buying a starter home at £140,000 with a 10% deposit is likely to cost under £800 per month to repay. Assuming we have a couple buying it, both earning about £18,000, this £800 mortgage should leave them with £1500 per month to live on, which I'd say is entirely doable. Especially when statistics tell us the average salary is now nearer £27,000.

There is no doubt that buying a house as a single person is tough, but when has it not been? How many people in previous generations walked out and bought a house as a single twenty-something?

Whilst I'm not sure it's possible to get empirical data to back my feelings up, I'd venture to suggest it's probably no harder to buy now than it was 20 or 30 years ago and that first time buyers are probably still putting a very similar proportion of their take home pay towards their mortgage as they were then.

All of this is played out in the fact that houses are, in fact, still selling. A carefully priced, well marketed property will find a buyer. It may take weeks rather than days and it's more likely that a vendor will have to take a bit of an offer, but purchasers are still buying and those Agents that care to put the effort in are still selling.

Gone are the days when you could throw a cheeky £10,000 on the asking price and hope for the best, buyers are too careful and too clued up to pay it, but if we price it right, cast the net wide enough and work hard at it, the buyers are out there.

So what is to come over the rest of the year? Well, that depends entirely on two things: affordability and confidence.

Affordability is actually predicted to get better quite quickly, most commentators are predicting an interest rate drop in February, bringing mortgage rates and monthly payments down. This is an interesting fact to consider. With interest rates currently at 5.5% a quarter point drop will make interest payments 4.5% cheaper, so the interest on that £140,000 house after the drop would be the same as that on a £133,560 house before the drop. In real terms, ignoring the repayment element, a quarter point drop makes houses 4.5% cheaper to buy. So the effective price of the four bedroom detached house at £250,000 before the drop comes down to nearer £236,500 after.

Confidence isn't so easy to judge, but as time passes, the real cost of buying drops and the media find something new to talk about, it will slowly but inevitably creep back in. In the meantime, so long as vendors stay sensible and agents work hard property will still sell, it's just not as easy as it was.

Mortgaging know-how

Nigel Lambert-Jones, an adviser with Thinc Group Limited, offers advice on remortgaging.

EVERYBODY who is currently paying a mortgage has some idea of the incentive period that ensues during the introductory years of a mortgage. During this period you'll usually have a preferential rate of interest but will be locked into the mortgage for a set amount of time, and usually pay a penalty if you change, cancel or pay off your mortgage.

Once this incentive period expires, you are automatically transferred to a lender's standard variable rate (SVR) that is on average about two to three per cent higher than the initial incentive rate. At this point, monthly mortgage repayments rise and people then start to think about remortgaging to get a better deal.

If you only start thinking about a remortgage once your repayments go up, then you've left it too late. Realistically you should consider a remortgage two to three months before your current deal runs out. You may think three months is too soon, but the process of remortgaging can take some time. Some mortgage lenders will allow you to secure a deal with a good rate of interest within these time scales, so if your incentive period is due to expire and you see a good mortgage deal, it's definitely worth talking to your mortgage adviser.

With the recent interest rate rises, those who took out a fixed-rate mortgage in the last few years will struggle to get a deal as good as their previous one, and will be facing higher rates of repayment. This has been labelled 'payment shock' by the media.

However, the effects of payment shock can be lessened by making good use of the vast number of options that are on the market for customers who want to remortgage. It is estimated that two million fixed-rate deals will mature over the next 18 months, and remortgaging is seen as a vast growth area for mortgage lenders. This means deals are always going to be competitive, with some lenders focusing on keeping existing customers by offering preferential deals in order to retain them.

Navigating the array of options can be daunting, but remember that mortgage lenders want your business and remortgaging is not just about controlling your payments, it also allows you to alter the terms of your mortgage such as withdrawing equity and changing the term of repayment. So if your mortgage incentive period is due to end there is no time like the present to have a chat with a mortgage adviser about the options available to you.

Civic Type S easy to live with

LET'S start with the look of it.

Although the styling may not be everybody's cup of tea, it looks good to me. Perhaps a little over-designed but very striking, especially in the Milano Red paint of this test car.

The inside is almost as futuristic-looking as the outside. The instrument binnacle is highly driver-orientated, with the dials and switch-gear all displayed around the steering wheel. The speedo is set right back, near the highly raked windscreen and not far from the driver's line of sight.

The controls are simple and intuitive to use and the interior has some nice features, including a pale blue interior light that stays on constantly, a dimmable display and economy and rev indicators. The economy one illuminates up to six green lights, depending on how eco-friendly your driving style is, while the rev indicator lights up to six red dots, telling the driver how close they are to the engine's red line!

So, it looks good and has some nice touches but how well does it drive? Well, the 2.2-litre diesel engine is very nice, providing excellent fuel economy with more than adequate performance. The 138bhp keeps the moving briskly along when wanted but the 251lb ft of torque is very handy, especially in a smallish car like the Civic. The 0-62mph acceleration figure of 8.6 seconds sounds good but the most impressive feeling is when accelerating in gear. The pick-up and shove in the back in any gear, at almost any speed, is guaranteed to put a smile on your face, and the car feels quicker than the figures suggest. In terms of performance then, a very good showing, especially considering this is Honda's warm model, not the Type R hot hatch.

The bonus of the diesel in this sporty model is that, no matter how hard you drive it, the mpg remains high and the emissions stay low. The quoted figure of 54.3mpg is easily achievable while your conscience can be pacified with the 138g/km CO2 output.

The strong engine is complemented by the handling, giving the driver confidence on any surface and in any conditions.

On the whole the Type S is very impressive, though there are some niggles. The lack of a rear windscreen wiper does prove a problem for a few minutes into a journey after a night of rain or ice, and the spoiler halfway down it does impair visability a little. The suspension will be too stiff for some, but these are relatively trivial complaints.

Basically . . .

An excellent car for single drivers, couples or young families with has good interior and boot space. The Civic will cruise at motorway speeds all day long, be fun to drive down a B-road and it can battle the urban environment with ease.

Jag wins 'What Car?' award

THE Oscars might have the potential to be a wash-out this year but the car world award ceremonies are still going strong.

The prestigious What Car? Car of the Year Awards took place at London's Grosvenor House Hotel last week with the Jaguar XF winning the overall award in the ceremony's 31st year.

The great and the good of the automotive world descended on Park Lane last Thursday evening to find out the category winners and the overall winner.

What Car? editor, Steve Fowler, said: "The XF has it all – it looks fantastic and has a classy, futuristic interior that gives it a real sense of occasion. On top of that it's great to drive, whatever mood you're in, and is a sound ownership proposition, too. Considering the quality of opposition it beat to win our Best Executive Car Award, it was an obvious choice for the overall award."

BMW and Mini were green, not with envy for missing out on the top prize, but for winning What Car?'s Green Award for the first time. The award recognises the company's achievements in using clever technology to reduce carbon dioxide emissions across the whole range of BMW and Mini cars.

British car makers also did well at the awards. Unsurprisingly, Land Rover again dominated the 4x4 categories – the new Freelander 2 was named Best Compact 4x4 for the second year and the Discovery won the Best Large 4x4 award for the fourth year running – while the Oxford-built Mini Cooper S won the Best Hot Hatch award for the second time.

Audi came away with the most trophies, including Best Performance Car for the new R8 and Best Coupé for the TT. Ford's new Mondeo was named Best Family Car and Best Estate, while last year's Car of the Year, the Vauxhall Corsa, was again named Best Supermini.

The What Car? Car of the Year 2008 winners are:

Rotating seat is so welcome

RESEARCH shows that the average parent will lift their child into his or her car seat 7,664 times over three-and-a-half years, lifting a total weight of 92 tons!

Fortunately, the launch of the Bébé Confort Axiss car seat means that you don't need to be weight lifters any more.

The Axiss car seat rotates 90 degrees on its base, enabling your child to be easily placed into, or lifted out of, the seat from the car's side door making it easier for you to lift, avoiding awkward movements and that extra arm power!

To help get this important feature across, Bébé Confort has enlisted the help of Alison Harris, one of Britain's strongest women. She can playfully lift the Axiss car seat and the child with ease, but fortunately for the rest of the population, the days of strong-arm tactics are over!

The Axiss boasts a range of great features, including the ability to set the rotation to right or left, so it doesn't matter which side of the car you install the car seat as it can turn to the appropriate door. A special safety lock ensures that once set to right or left, the seat cannot be rotated in the opposite direction, so it can't be activated by accident, say by another child sitting in the car.

Strong-arm tactics a thing of past

For further details and a demonstration on how the seat works, log on to the Bébé Confort website at www.bebeconfort.com/axiss. The video is very short and a must-see to really demonstrate the uniqueness of this rotating car seat.

■ BÉBÉ CONFORT AXISS . . . swivels to face either door, saving the need for an awkward lift.

Static used prices

USED car prices have remained static in January, according to the latest market data.

The traditional January recovery in used car prices has not happened this year, which should come as good news for buyers, according to the experts behind top trade publication, Glass's Guide to Used Car Values.

Normally prices increase in January from pre-Christmas levels.

So far this year there's been no rise.

ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 – SECTION 14(1)(a)
THE A11 TRUNK ROAD (SIX MILE BOTTOM TO NINE MILE HILL INTERCHANGE, CAMBRIDGESHIRE) (TEMPORARY RESTRICTION AND PROHIBITION OF TRAFFIC) ORDER 2008

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Secretary of State for Transport has made an Order on the A11 Trunk Road in the County of Cambridgeshire, to allow for essential road resurfacing and replacement of road markings to be carried out in safety, to the northbound carriageway between Six Mile Bottom and Nine Mile Hill Interchange, near Swaffham Bulbeck.

It is expected that the works will take place over 5 nights starting on or after, Monday 4 February 2008 from 8pm Monday to Friday finishing at 6am the following mornings. The Order will come into force when the appropriate traffic signs are erected from 1 February 2008 and have a maximum duration of eighteen months.

The effect of the Order will be to –

- (a) impose a 50 miles per hour speed limit on the A11 northbound carriageway from a point 2 kilometres south of the exit slip road at the A11/A1304 Six Mile Bottom Junction to that slip road, and
- (b) close the A11 northbound carriageway from its junction with the exit slip road at the A11/A1304 Six Mile Bottom Junction to the centre line of the A11/A14/A1303 Nine Mile Hill Interchange.

The temporary mandatory speed limit (which will not apply to emergency service vehicles) and carriageway closure (which will not apply to emergency service, Winter Service Maintenance or works vehicles) and diversion routes, will be clearly signposted throughout the duration of the works.

Set on the Suffolk/Cambridge/Essex borders with easy access to London, Castle Manor has a playgroup, further education facilities on site and Sixth Form provision.

At Castle Manor we have high expectations of our students. We seek a dynamic, self-motivated person who will ensure our students follow clear boundaries in our "Grey Room". The Student Behaviour Support Worker will be working as part of our Learning Support team and alongside our partner schools, maintaining an appropriate separate environment for students who have been given an internal or external exclusion following a breach of our Behaviour Policy. Previous experience in a similar role is not necessary, however a keen interest in working with young people to ensure they achieve their best is essential. The successful candidate will be confident in dealing with students aged 14-19 and an effective communicator with parents, colleagues and external agencies. Ex-services personnel would be well suited to this role.

RACING

Nap prize netted by Thurlow SC

AN 18-pence winning margin was worth £1,000 to the Cambridge Evening News Go-Naps kings Thurlow Sports Club.

The syndicate won the Flat racing prediction competition, organised by the sister paper of the Haverhill Weekly News, earning them £1,000 from sponsors Newmarket Racecourses, in thrilling fashion. A 4-1 winner in the final week was just enough to hold off T&V Tipsters, who themselves landed an 8-1 shot.

The runners-up could console themselves with £100 winnings, while third-placed Three-legged Donkeys earned £50.

FOOTBALL

Wrattling slam six of the best

Hundon Hawks U11 0
West Wrattling Youth U11 6

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 11A

WRATTING went on the attack from the kick-off and, with only four minutes gone, Elliot put over a well-struck cross, which Bush met powerfully with a first-time shot to make it 1-0.

The visitors continued to create chances, as Foster worked hard in midfield and Bush, Lambert, Elliot and Cooper played some good attacking football.

The second goal came after 18 minutes when Massie played a long ball to Lambert, who fired home on the half-volley.

Hundon competed bravely, but were kept at bay, thanks mainly to man-of-the-match Payne, who put in an outstanding performance in his new defensive role.

The second half saw Wrattling continue to pressurise the Hundon goal.

Stevenson earned the opposition manager's vote for man-of-the-match, with another impressive game.

He was unlucky not to score himself, hitting the bar from a free-kick and being denied by the keeper on two other occasions.

Ten minutes into the half, Scotton made it 3-0 finishing well from a Bush corner.

Bush scored his second, completing a well-worked passing move between himself, Scotton and Lambert.

Scotton also claimed a second with a shot that deflected of a defender into the top of the Hawks' net.

Brave Grampian are out-Gunned

GRAMPIAN started off very slowly, having only played one game since December 8, and were punished by a very sharp-looking Walden team. Gunners found themselves 3-0 down inside the first 10 minutes and looked all at sea before some words from their manager reminded them that the game had already started! As the rust finally began to get shaken off, Gunners' football became better.

Jamie Lingard started a fantastic move, which involved Toby Daly, Jason Moore, George Mustoe, Josh Matthewson and Mitchell Forshaw, before ending with a shot crashing off the a Walden post. Jack Ferguson hit a scorcher of a free-kick, which the Walden goalkeeper saved well. Thing got worse for Grampian when right on the stroke of half-time Walden added their fourth goal.

The second half was a superb end-to-end affair and much more even.

Grampian's birthday boy Lewis Whiting was denied again and again by the Walden keeper and defence, while Forshaw hit a post, and Bailey Cassidy fired a long rocket shot inches wide. Walden scored two more this half past man-of-the-match Lewis Knightly, who was excellent in the Grampian goal, despite the blindingly low sun in his eyes.

But, for all their spirited efforts, Grampian could not find the net and left smiling, but empty-handed.

Not to be out done, Lambert completed the scoring with a good solo run and finish, to make it 6-0.

Hundon Hawks U9 5
Sawston U9 6

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE

SAWSTON swiftly raced in to a three-goal lead before the Hawks pulled one back through Tommy Goodwin.

Sawston again took control and were 5-1 up before two goals from Branham Ince got the Hawks back in the game.

Though the Hawks were now controlling the play, Sawston made it 6-3 against the run of play.

With man-of-the-match Kieran Grace prompting the Hawks onward, a strike each from Anders Pilley and skipper Milo Holmes got them to within a goal of their opponents.

Although it was a great fightback, Hawks eventually ran out of time, losing by the odd goal in 11.

Angels fail to take advantage

THE Angels' first match of 2008 ended in defeat in this local derby.

Though dominating possession, Delaware were unable to make use of the ball in the first half and went 2-0 down to a couple of goals on the counter attack from the home team.

Matthew Morrison showed great strength at the beginning of the second half before finishing well to bring Angels right back into the contest.

Arrendene Athletic 3
Delaware Feather Angels 2

TREADFIRST SUDBURY & DISTRICT SUNDAY LEAGUE, DIVISION FIVE

Athletic, however, struck again mid-way through the second period putting the game out of reach, that meaning Sam Wiffin's goal five minutes from time was just a mere consolation for the Feather Angels.

MARTIAL ARTS

Chillcott's battling display gains him England selection

DANIEL Chillcott, a member of Haverhill Shotokan Karate Club has gained a place in the England squad for the forthcoming European and World Championships.

He travelled to Liverpool on Saturday for a selection event, where he faced tough competition from some of the best exponents of the sport, aged between 14 and 21, from all over the country, who were vying to make the squad.

More than 200 competitors fought for two hours and Chillcott was then asked to remain for a further two hours of combat before securing his place in the squad.

Haverhill club instructor Colin Arnold said: "It was hard. Daniel had fought some of them before when becoming central region champion in his age group for the last two years running. "He was ranked No 3 in the country in his age group last year, so things are looking bright for him.

"But, he will have to keep on his toes with other young fighters coming through the club's ranks. "Daniel's achievements reflect the hard work and commitment of everyone at the club and is also good for Haverhill as a town."

An new beginners' course is starting at the club. For further details, telephone Colin Arnold on 01440 712553 or go along to Castle Manor Upper School on Tuesdays or Thursdays, between 7 and 9pm.

FOOTBALL

■ ON TARGET ... Marc Abbott's equaliser briefly put Haverhill Rovers back in the hunt at Felixstowe on Saturday.

Rovers slide to defeat by the seaside

Felixstowe & Walton 4
Haverhill Rovers 2

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

HIGH-flying Haverhill were brought back down to earth with a bump after they were turned over 4-2 on their day trip to the coast on Saturday.

Rovers boss Steve Taylor guided his team into the top four going into Saturday's game in their first season back in the Eastern Counties League's top flight, but they slipped one place after the weekend's defeat.

The visitors had the first chance when Joe Harvey volleyed over from a Wayne Goddard throw after just six minutes, but they found themselves a goal down 60 seconds later when a clever lob found its way into the back of the net off the post.

Rovers then took control of the game with Marc Abbott firing over on 18 minutes before Harvey's effort on the turn found the Felixstowe keeper four minutes later.

Haverhill captain Marcus Hunt went close with a near post header on 33 minutes, but the hosts countered and Rovers keeper Arron Benstead was adjudged to have brought down a home striker in the area which meant the referee awarded the penalty, which Felixstowe converted on 40 minutes. But Haverhill were awarded a spot-kick of their own a minute later for a foul on Harvey, which the ever dependable Hunt put away to keep his team in the game at the break.

And Rovers drew level two minutes into the second half thanks to an Abbott goal on the rebound from a Nick Impey shot. However, parity only lasted for four minutes as Felixstowe hit a third on 51 minutes before killing the game off with a fourth deep into injury time. Haverhill will not get an easy chance to try to bounce back as they prepare to visit title-chasers Soham at Julius Martin Lane on Saturday.

Haverhill want end to their woe

THE end of the season cannot come quick enough for Haverhill Rugby Club's first XV, who have been struggling throughout their Eastern Counties Two campaign.

Despite giving a plucky display before losing 10-3 against Dereham on Saturday, club officials are just ticking off the days before the can regroup in the close season.

Vice-captain Jake Plumridge, who is currently at the helm of the team, said it was simply Haverhill's aim just to see out their remaining matches with the resources currently at their disposal.

"As a club, we are starting to struggle as a lot of players have just lost interest," said Plumridge.

■ FLASHBACK ... Haverhill players at last season's Suffolk Plate Final.

"There's no commitment and at training we've only had five.

"I think we have to see out the rest of the season, fulfil the fixtures and then start afresh.

"Trying to choose a side and play a decent game of rugby is very difficult at the moment.

"We just want to get the season over and down with."

Plumridge is in charge as skipper Dave Quinney is out with a long-term knee injury, while another key player, Michael Lansdown, has also been sidelined with a similar complaint.

This season has been in marked contrast to the last campaign, which saw Haverhill well up the league and made a memorable appearance in the final of the Suffolk Plate, which took place on their own ground in front of a big crowd.

That match signalled the retirement of a number of club stalwarts, although some of them have returned this season to help out when numbers have
